In all the things that take place in this old world there needs must be a driving force behind it. It takes organization, it takes patience, it takes leadership and initiative to accomplish worthwhile projects. It is lacking, this driving force, in Raymond. We need a civic organization to work for the betterment of the community. To see that all the things we talk of on the street are put into operation. We need an organization representing all the members of the community, with membership open to all the people, men and women alike, with the welfare of the district and town and community as a whole at heart.

It doesn't take a lot of money to operate an organization like that, but it does take co-operation, leadership and determination of all concerned to work together.

Service for the betterment of mankind carries its own reward in the knowledge that you have given something of yourself to it and that through your efforts someone has benefited. If we can benefit ourselves by working together for the common good we all share in the glory of it.

We need the leadership of some man or woman in Raymond to start a civic organization, one that will take in everyone and be of benefit to the community.

Step forth someone and start the ball rolling.

FLYING MEDICAL SERVICE

Both the provincial and federal governments were offered a suggestion of high practical value in the address of Dr. Mary Johnstone, M.B.E., who told the Women's Canadian Club of Edmonton something about the value of the medical flying service now operating in Australia.

The establishment of air ambulances for the regular use of civilians and a nursing and medical service by airplane would add immeasurable inducements for the settlement of Canada's Northland.

Dr. Johnstone told graphically of her experiences as a country doctor in Northern Alberta where, she said, many lives could be saved by a flying medical service. Great distances, bad roads, and severe weather she said, all contribute to the impossibility of getting patients to hospital.

Her suggestion for the establishment of such a service has a large humanitarian value. No sum is too large to spend if only a single life is in jeopardy because of the unavailability of medical service in remote areas.

The proposal, however, has an additional economic value.

Nothing militates so strongly against the establishment of homes in the north country as the unwillingness of potential settlers to take their wives and families into districts where they cannot be assured

"Take It Easy" Slogan Is Urged On Drivers

With the volume of motor traffic on the increase, officials of the Alberta Motor Association are drawing fresh attention to the slogan, "Take It Easy."

This year there are indications that more cars than ever before will be on the highways. Tourists are certain to visit the province in record numbers.

The number of car licenses issued by the provincial secretary's department is far in excess of a year ago. Within a short time after new licenses went on sale more than 60,000 had been issued.

A study completed by the American Automobile Association shows that when car speeds are increased from 35 to 65 miles per hour, car operating costs increase from a little over two and a half cents to approximately six cents per mile.

Based on a 1000 mile trip the average car driven at the higher speed consumes four and a half times more oil and twice as much gasoline than the moderate 35 miles per hour speed. Tire wear and repair costs are tripled.

The high cost of fast driving is another good reason why drivers should Take It Easy.

of adequate medical attention.

No man with family feelings is completely satisfied with a situation where the life of his wife may depend upon some haphazard "every flight."

With two-way radio telephone communication and a regularly organized medical service by air, every settler in even the furthest point could be assured of some measure of health safety.

The development of such a service in this province need not await federal government action. Alberta in this regard has a problem peculiarly her own.

The government of this province would take a forward step if the present session of the legislature were asked to consider the formation of a flying medical service, not only as a humanitarian measure, but as a contributing factor in the settlement of the north.

Roy, who has been a medical student for the past four years will graduate from his course and receive his M.D. Degree after which he will enter the Royal Alexandra hospital for his intern work.

PLANS TO IMPROVE 2000 MILES OF ROADS

Improvements over 2000 miles of highways are planned this year by the provincial public works department, according to information by the Alberta Motor Association.

The program, to be financed out of the $13,500,000 road program covers 545 miles of construction to standard earth grade on main and secondary highways, 573 miles of first course gravel surfacing on main and secondary highways and 247 miles of asphaltic surfacing with 209 miles of stabilized gravel base course on main and secondary highways.

One of the major projects will be paving of the 67 mile stretch between High River and Macleod.

The program also includes paving between Lethbridge, Macleod and Macleod-Pincher.

A 22 mile stretch between Ponoka and Wetaskiwin also is to be completed this season.

One of the main bridge projects will be the erecting of a bridge over the Old Man river. This will be an eight span 800 foot bridge.

Work already has commenced on some projects under favorable weather conditions.

News From The Wheat Pool

POOL RESERVE PURCHASE

The Alberta Wheat Pool has mailed cheques to a value of $602,801.84 covering the purchase of Pool reserves from the estates of deceased Pool members and also from former members who attained the age of 75 years as at December 31, 1947.

In recent months the Alberta Pool has also redeemed reserves to the value of $80,781.39 from members who had passed their 65th birthday on December 31, 1947, and who had ceased to have any interest in grain producing land.

The total payment in redeeming all categories of reserves during the current year was $683,583.23. The reserves thus redeemed were contributed by the membership between the years 1923 and 1928.

Reserves are purchased on one hundred cents on the dollar. They will be re-issued in the form of patronage dividends to patrons of Alberta Pool Elevators.

COARSE GRAINS ADJUSTMENT PAYMENT

The Alberta Wheat Pool mailed cheques totalling approximately $530,000 to farmers who delivered oats and barley between August 1 and October 21, 1947. The payment was 14 1/2¢ a bushel on barley and 10 1/2¢ on oats.

From August 1 to October 21 of last year the federal government maintained ceiling prices of 65¢ a bushel for oats and 93¢ a bushel for barley, basing Fort William. Farmers who delivered those grains in that period had to accept those prices. On October 21st the ceilings were removed and prices advanced sharply, creating an unfair situation to those who delivered oats and barley earlier.

This matter was discussed at the annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool held last November, and a decision was reached to refund excess earnings on the volume of oats and barley delivered prior to October 21st to the farmers who had made such deliveries.

Grain producers can increase their Pool reserve holdings by patronizing Alberta Pool Elevators. Alberta Pool reserves are valuable property.

My Week
by R. J. Denchman
The budget is out. Now it is the solemn duty of all people with conflicting views to tear it apart. I hope they do so. Not that I deem the budget particularly bad, taking the circumstances into consideration, it may be fairly good. In fact it may go down in history as the first good thing the Federal Government has done in May 1948.

There are two conflicting opinions on this budget—pardon me, my mind slipped a cog—there are four the government, the Opposition, the C.C.F., and the S.C. party Social Credit. If you would like the name of the fourth ingredient in full perhaps we may as well consider the first two and forget the others momentarily.

The Government is attempting to develop the habit of a compensatory budget. Taxes will be high in good times, debt will be reduced expenditures will be cut—that's hope for the future and a dim one unless the people rouse themselves to the need for it. When hard times come and they will come, have no doubt about that, the Government will loosen up, reduce taxes, increase expenditures, particularly along the line of public works having a permanent or even an asset value. So the tendency will be to level up—avoid the depth of depression, and the peaks of boom, which, as the economic records of the nation reveal, have followed after each other, like alternate clouds and sunshine on a summer's day.

Now for the second point of view. Here the theory is that the high cost of living is, in some measure, due to the high rate of taxation. That is true if we accept the idea that a reduction of taxation and the lower price which would be brought about would stimulate production and thus improve the economic position of the Dominion. Unfortunately this anticipated result is not likely to follow. We are still in an inflationary cycle. A broad cut in the Sales Tax now might lose the revenue and fail to get the price reductions. Normally tax cuts are a wise policy but today we do well to reduce debts and live frugally. Who knows what lies ahead in the world of today, we must budget for conditions as they are.

All this makes me ponder mightily on things which, at times, disturb me. If we had gone to sleep right before the budget and for some reason the budget had been brought down by the Conservative party, would it have been very similar to the one which Mr. Abbott produced and would Mr. Abbott as chief financial critic of the opposition, have made criticisms not unlike those delivered by Mr. J.M. Macdonnell, the Pro-Con member for Muskoka, Ont.? If so, what thin partitions do our lines divide? Politics has its funny moments.

There is one thing that should be hammered into the minds of the people. They asked for high taxes. All shades of politics support almost every possible measure of spending. I don't know any other means by which we can get lower taxes except running into debt or reducing expenditures. It will need courage to do it. The people believe in high taxes right through the year until budget day. Then they criticize the budget because taxes are not reduced despite the requests of the people for high and increasingly higher public expenditures. But a

Elizabeth Benson Guy, young flax singer who will be guest artist in the Symphony for Strings broadcast on Friday June 4th at 10:30 MDT on the CBC Trans-Canada network. change will come. I am thoroughly convinced that the worm will turn. The tired tax payer who forks out $2,664 millions a year will begin to change his mind about expenditures. Of course, in this vast sum, there are some non-tax revenue items and the debt has been reduced—but even with these the load is heavy. If taxes could be cut, and cost of living decline, not too precipitously, of course, it would be a godsend in more senses than one for the people of Canada.

Well Mr. Stalin, what have you to say about it? Too much—if I know anything—please give us a hint. If you were less belligerent I would have more hope.
TOO TRUE

"In the Senate recently a member pointed out that this country was not developed by government handouts and money grants, but by the individuals who succeeded by their own efforts. Now we have all kinds of aids such as grants to those wanting to take university courses, baby bonuses, and many other things for which the taxpayers stand the costs.
The view that the world owes us a living seems to prevail in many peoples minds, and vote-catching politicians encourage this view. It is absolutely wrong, and will, instead of strengthening the moral fibre of the people, lead to their undoing. This leaning on governments develops weakness in those who haven't the initiative to rely on themselves. There always will be the weak who as long as others will help them, will sit back and take everything handed to them as if it were a right.
The best help is self-help, whereby a man develops his own resources and gets along under his own steam. Paternalism of governments and Socialistic theories will not make lazy people better citizens. Canada presents opportunities aplenty for those who are willing to use their God-given energies towards improving their own standards. Bolstering up 'weak sisters' by government handouts is entirely wrong. Vote-catching political candidates should be plainly told so."

WEEKLY LETTER CONTROL GULLY EROSION

The spring run-off this year has caused serious erosion in many localities in Southern Alberta. Some erosion takes place every spring to make us realize that precautions should be taken to control it.

On most farms there are drainage ways that occasionally carry an excess of run-off water. Seeding down to grass is the most satisfactory way to prevent erosion of these natural drainageways. The farmer will be well repaid for doing a little preparatory work before doing the actual seeding.

Last week a drainageway was prepared for seeding at the Nobleford substation. Both sides of the drain were plowed with a four-bottom plow and then a small grader was used to fill in the eroded parts. The grader was then used to level out the bottom of the draw so that the channel was flat and about ten feet wide. The sides were then graded so that implements can pass across. The natural channel was followed as closely as possible, only the sharp turns were eliminated.

To provide temporary protection against erosion a light broadcast seeding of grain is suggested. With this the grass is seeded to provide permanent protection. Grass is the best grass where it will grow satisfactorily but eroded wheat grass will serve the purpose if sown at about 10 to 12 pounds per acre. Broadcasting the seed is suggested because in drilling grass seed into this spring with scarcely any cross drainage drilling usually per-

OF THINGS TO COME

As a result of the disclosures made in the budget speech made by Finance Minister Abbott there is a growing belief in Ottawa that it is quite unlikely a general election will be held this year, though rumors about such a test have been circulating here for several months, particularly in view of the several tests in the provinces scheduled for 1948 and other developments in the federal arena. But this is only one of a number of important reactions which the national budget has brought into the spotlight because hints contained between the lines are bound to influence the state of employment, business, income and prices.

It is held here that between the lines of Mr. Abbott's declaration there was a definite hint that the international situation is most uncertain, far more doubtful than the average person seems to recognize during this so-called "cold war" of nerves, with this gathering crisis in international finance and trade causing the Canadian Government not only to re-evaluate reconstruction plans on less ambitious lines but to move with caution, great caution. There may be further limitations of our sales abroad for U.S. currency and there may be other factors. It is uncertain even if everything possible will be done to increase Canada exports, including, as a spokesman for the Government put it, "positive measures".

Evidently, veteran observers emphasize, the present so-called "austerity program" of the Canadian Government will not be ended as quickly as the average Canadian would seem to think. It is, of course, temporary, but temporary may be a long time they stress. In other words, the exchange reserves which were disclosed as $668,000,000 at the end of April this year are still dangerously low and these will have to increase considerably before relief from "austerity" can be anticipated on a wide scale though the abrupt decline of these cash reserves has apparently been stopped. Canada can neither be too hasty in relaxing the irritating controls that have had to be imposed, nor too optimistic in appraising her capacity to give any further assistance to world recovery it is pointed out here.

Then again, the Canadian economy appears to be affected by a boom. There is no doubt about judging from the disclosures in the annual budget and the hints by the Government that it plans to go easy in relaxing taxation. Prices and forces which tend to increase them are being checked by this domestic boom so that the fight against inflation is still very much in our midst with the Government saying that there is an inevitable, persistent upward pressure on the price levels by the activities while hard to do too much too quickly. At the same time there is a very strong suggestion here now that neither the Government nor Parliament has the political mandate or constitutional power to maintain indefinitely in peacetime a strait-jacket or controls over prices, production and distribution. The whole economy has been organized to operate on a price basis by private initiatives and private initiatives, not by centralized direction, this budget has emphasized in clear language.

In simple everyday language, it is now crystal clear that the Canadian Government has warned the masses that present boom conditions cannot be expected to last indefinitely in face of a $670,000,000 surplus in 1947-48 following one of $373,000,000 in 1946-47. That is why taxation relief has not been provided as generally anticipated across Canada.

That is why plans for tax cuts here and there have been met by cold reactions. That is why policies have been framed to fight inflationary forces and to redeem our national debt as quickly as possible under the circumstances.

It is no secret backstage in Ottawa that the budget has disappointed a great many people in all walks of life because it failed to reduce further the personal income tax, a long business burdens, and others, especially with a large surplus in the treasury. However, those who keep their eyes and ears open along Parliament Hill realize what the Government has in mind. They know that sooner or later there may be need of spending much more on national defence due to developing events on the international scene, described as having a "threatening appearance" right now. They know too the Government acknowledges it would not be prudent to rally on current economic conditions continuing good indefinitely. Therefore, the budget this year is not merely an accounting report by the Canadian Government but in reality a "white paper" of things to come, with hints dropped here and there about the uncertainties which lie ahead which only shortsighted people can afford to ignore but not those entrusted with leading the nation.

NOT LARGE ENOUGH

"We have a larger supply of beef this year than last," said an MP at the Prices Committee of the House of Commons here but the head of a well-known packing firm told him "it just isn't large enough, that's all". The latter added: "You don't suppose we're paying 19 cents a pound for live steers because we want to? There is a shortage of supply in relation to the demand."

OPPOSED TO MEASURE

When a bill was introduced by a private member providing that one-third of any jury trying a woman in Canada should be women, Justice Minister Hsley opposed the measure although he said he is not opposed to opportunity for equality for jury service between men and women. He stated he feels there is something "illogical" in the rigidity of a regulation which would set the number of women members at one-third.

STARTLING FACT! More people buy and enjoy Maxwell House than any other brand of coffee in the world at any price! For gloriously rich and mellow coffee say "Maxwell House."

Order your counter books through
RAYMOND RECORDER

At the same time he also questioned the wisdom of passing legislation that might interfere with provincial jury laws. The bill was talked out and went to the bottom of the list.

MORE EFFICIENT PLANS.

The establishment of more efficient machinery to study estimates of expenditures for government departments has been urged in the House of Commons with the plea being that with hundreds of millions of dollars voted in a matter of minutes some reform was necessary. When opposition leader Bracken said the practice of voting interim supply is bad and blamed it on the fact that the budget is not given early enough, Finance Minister Abbott explained that supply has nothing to do with the budget which simply outlines where the Government plans to get the money to cover its expenditures.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"Members will, I know, be gratified by this decision for the country has shown clearly its opinion that those who have suffered as the result of death or disability from war services, should be compensated adequately," said Veterans Affairs Minister Gregg, announcing the 25% pensions increase in Parliament.

"The public will endorse the government's action," remarked Gordon Graydon, MP approving actions which would boost pensions payments to Canadian Veterans.

"I am a Westerner and I can find no record that either Ontario or Quebec ever gave a dollar to Western Canada in any form that they didn't get a dollar back—with interest," declared Senator John T. Haig, in the capital.

"I make no apologies to this House for action that will prevent insurance companies funds from being lost by a government housing program," said Trade Minister Howe emphasizing that money in the hands of insurance companies belonged to the Canadian people.

"They saved the Canadian dollar from destruction and the Canadian people from disaster at that Geneva Conference," commented Senator Ian MacKenzie on the work attached to that trade post, together with "brilliant luck" of Canada's civil servants.

WEEKLY WIND-UP

Sensational rumors about United States and Russia getting together in "talks" have brought extremely cautious reaction in Ottawa.

The only woman MP in the House of Commons, Mrs. Gladys Strum, has stated that the housing situation in Canada is enough to drive anyone crazy, going all out in favor of subsidized housing to help the masses.

With Germany still considered an enemy country German nationals cannot come to Canada. Hon. James MacKinnon made it clear here.

though it is known that thousands of Germans want to come to this country.

When the law clerk of the House of Commons, Dr. Maurice Ollivier suggested that MP's should be allowed to speak only so long as they can stand on one foot in a humorous remark, an MP said, "some civil servants I know could do other work better while standing on their heads."

The report that HRH Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands due to ill-health and advancing age, will abdicate her throne next September in favor of her daughter HRH Princess Juliana recalls that she made two visits to Ottawa during the war to visit here daughter here.

The whispers along Parliament Hill are that the drive for clean warfare will be greatly intensified next session and already supporters are being sought for such a campaign.

Canadian Convert Visits The Clyde Campbells

—From the North Ogden News
Editors Note: Clyde Campbell was a missionary companion of Clifford Dahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Campbell had as a recent guest at their home, Mrs. Marie Jamieson, of Brantford, Ontario, Canada. Mrs. Jamieson, of Indian descent, joined the church when Clyde was on his mission to the Canadian Indians twenty five years ago. Her husband, Chris, died about 100 years ago. Mrs. Jamieson grandmother, while a very small white girl was stolen by the Indians which accounts for her Indian blood.

The editor of the Brantford news paper although a non-member asked Mrs. Jamieson, while on this trip to gather some information on the Church Welfare program for publication in his newspaper.

Realizing the difficulty encountered by the missionaries in finding living quarters while laboring with the Indians, Mrs. Jamieson decided to the church two acres of her land on the nearby reservation for the location of a mission home. While investigating the welfare system and discussing the projects with officials in Salt Lake City, Mrs. Jamieson offered her two hundred acre farm in Canada for rent which was readily accepted by the welfare board. The land is adapted to hay, grain or fruit.

A young daughter of Mrs. Jamieson will remain in Ogden where she is employed in office work while her mother will return to Canada.

B OF M ANNOUNCES EXECUTIVE CHANGES

The Bank of Montreal has announced the appointment of Ernest E. Rutherford, manager of the Bank's main Toronto office, as an assistant general manager in charge of western branches. He succeeds Frederick Gordon Belcher, who is retiring at the end of June.

A native of Birmingham, Eng., Mr. Rutherford has had extensive banking experience in this country and in England, since joining the B of M in 1912, at Fencelon Falls, Ont. Before his appointment last year as manager of the bank's main Montreal office, he successively held the posts of assistant manager of that office and superintendent of branches in the Quebec, Maritimes and Newfoundland district. Overseas with the Canadian Army during the first world war, he was severely wounded at Passchendaele.

Mr. Belcher was assistant superintendent of the Saskatchewan district from 1922 to 1929 and was made superintendent of the district four years later. Named superintendent of branches in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan in 1935, he was, seven years later, appointed an assistant general manager of the bank.

TRAINED TRAFFIC MEN FOR ALASKA HIGHWAY

Traffic experts are to be placed on the Alaska highway by the federal authorities according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Six of these men are now undergoing special training under R.C.M.P. supervision in the east. Later two will be stationed at Fort St. John, two at Fort Nelson and a like number at Whitehorse.

The federal officials are being instructed in regard to handling of traffic, in view of indications that there will be a heavy flow over the Alaska highway as soon as conditions are satisfactory.

While the federal government has removed the order requiring permits to drive over the highway, certain regulations in regard to safety must be observed for the protection of life and property.

Visitors from the U.S. have stated that thousands of cars are waiting to head for the Alberta border just as soon as the holiday season opens.

Officials of the A.M.A. have stressed the need of all motor tourists heading north being properly equipped and assured of necessary accommodations and services, which are limited if any great rush should develop this season.

A.M.A. DIRECTORS TO TALK ROAD SAFETY

Greater safety on Alberta highways is to be a subject for discussion at the semi-annual meeting of provincial directors for the Alberta Motor Association which will be held at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton, June 11 and 12.

The A.M.A. has carried on a vigorous campaign in recent years for increased measures to ensure safe driving. Its work has been extensive in various fields while also looking to the future.

Driver training courses in schools will be one of the matters discussed along this line having been approved at the last annual meeting of the organization.

Operating of motor safety patrols is another subject while also included will be the question of examinations of applicants for drivers licenses which the provincial government was to initiate this year but finally decided to postpone.

Reports of a large number of motor vehicle accidents annually call for greater educational work along safe driving lines, as well as pedestrian education in the opinion of officials of the A.M.A.

KEEP PLANTING VEGETABLES

Too much stress cannot be laid on continuous planting of the standard vegetables like lettuce, radish, beans, carrots, beets, corn etc. These taste much better when they just begin to reach proper maturity. Beans, lettuce, corn and such things begin to get tough if left too long. In most parts of Canada it is quite possible to keep planting many vegetables right up to mid-July.

Making Most of Space.

Where vegetable garden space is limited it is best to stick to smaller and heavy cropping things like beets, carrots, spinach, beans etc. All of these can be grown, if necessary, in rows no more than 12 inches apart and a 10 foot row will supply many delicious meals. Slightly more room between the rows will make cultivation easier and also give a better chance to keep down weeds.

Space can be saved with larger growing vegetables by following a few tricks of the experienced gardener. Take tomatoes, for example. If left alone to grow the natural way, these plants will need a full 24 inches at least each way and, better still, 30 inches or a yard. However, if they are staked, they can be grown about 15 to 18 inches apart and better earlier, and cleaner fruit will be produced. Stakes should be about 6 feet long and firmly driven at least a foot in the soil close to the plant. All side shoots are nipped off and growth confined to a single shoot. Care must be taken not to pinch off flowers which will come at every joint in the main stem. The latter should be tied loosely to the stake with soft twine or raffia, about every foot.

Melons, squash and other climbing or trailing vegetables, or perhaps we should say fruits, will take up less valuable space if planted around the outside of the main garden. They can trail over paths, or even fences. Most of these things, however, require as much sun as possible as well as good rich open soil. Incidentally around the outside of the garden and especially the North and west side is the place for fruit trees. Here they are out of the way and they will not shade the garden. Spread out Annual Flowers.

With bedding plants like petunias, asters, cosmos, marigolds etc., most amateurs make the same mistake as they make with shrubs and trees—they plant them too close together. This is not only expensive but it results in less bloom and poor, spindly growth.

It is really surprising how much space a well-grown petunia, nasturtium or any other of these plants will cover. Instead of putting the larger sorts 6 to 8 inches apart the experts advocate a foot or even two.

This will allow easier cultivation which, of course, is vital, and encourage the plant to spread and grow sturdily. In a few weeks these annuals will have occupied all the space between. For very long beds such as those along driveways petunias, zinnias, cosmos, big marigolds etc., are often planted in wavy rows far enough apart to permit tractor cultivation for the first week or two. By mid July they will be making a wonderful show.

IS COMPETING IN QUIZZ CONTEST

Donald Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Baker of this district and a student at Brigham Young High School in Provo, Utah, is in the running for a one-year scholarship to any Utah College.

He was a member of the four-boy team which won a quiz contest for his school and is to compete soon in a state wide contest in which the brightest members of each of 22 high schools in Utah will be asked to answer posers. DR. VARD L. TANNER, 62, DIES IN SALT LAKE AFTER ILLNESS

Dr. Vard Lauren Tanner, 62, 428 1st st., educator and doctor of philosophy in psychology, died Friday at 9 p.m. in a Salt Lake hospital after a lingering illness.

Born April 9, 1886 in Clover Tooele county, he was a son of Joseph T. and Isabel Etookey Tanner. He attended Tooele schools and the LDS college in Salt Lake City.

He received his masters and bachelor's degrees at the University of Utah and his doctors degree at University of Chicago in 1922.

Mr. Tanner taught education and psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, in Arkansas and for a number of years at Weber college in Ogden. Later he was an instructor in Raymond, Alberta, Canada, and assistant superintendent of adult education in Granite school district a number of years.

He retired about five years ago due to illness.

He married Frances Rasmussen, September 6, 1912 and she died Mar. 26, 1915. He married Lillian Hall Peterson Sept. 25, 1929 in the Salt Lake Temple, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Mr. Tanner was active in the L.D.S. Church.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a stepdaughter, Mrs. Connie Hall Concord, Cal., a brother and two sisters, Clio Tanner, Alaska, Mrs. Mand T. Samsen, Salt Lake, and Mrs. Rowena T. Hodge, Spanish Fork.

(Mr. Tanner will be remembered by old timers in this district.)
